

Manhattan Youth's Downtown Day Camp is seeking an experienced AND FUN Ooey Gooey Science and Lego Construction teacher to work with large groups of about 25 K-3rd grade campers each. To be considered for this position you should have at least two years experience, with great references, teaching science or related activities to large groups of K-3rd graders... AND YOU SHOULD EXUDE FUN!

If interviewed and subsequently hired, the candidate must be available to attend our three staff orientation sessions:

Wednesday, May 31st: 6:30-9:00pm

Thursday, June 1st: 6:30-9:00pm

Saturday, June 10th: 10:00am-6:00pm

Summer Camp Work Dates (you must be available for all of these dates):

Monday - Friday, 9am - 5pm - beginning Thursday, June 29th (yes, camp starts on a Thursday), through Friday, August 11th. We are closed Tuesday, July 4th.

Qualifications:

Full-time (or equivalent) experience teaching science related activities to K-3rd grades.

Experience and ability to order supplies and manage a 6 week curriculum (fun stuff, like making slime, etc.), and successfully manage and maintain a science room.

Can teach large groups of approximately 25 campers at a time while engaging counselors to help out.

Has a very positive teaching style (encouraging, motivating, and being a role model for the campers and staff).

Is very open-minded and responds well to supervision from other camp leaders.

Has very positive group management skills, as opposed to simply telling children what to do.

Knows how to positively motivate groups of children and counselors.

Works very well in a fast-paced, busy environment.
